The Behavioral Health Workforce for the Aging Population: Who Will Serve? (MC74)

4th Annual Behavioral Health and Aging Conference
Passavant Hospital Foundation Conference Center
Thursday, June 12th, 2014

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

This conference will address the challenges and opportunities in providing behavioral health services for the aging population. Designed specifically for staff of aging and behavioral health providers, (including front-line workers, therapists and clinicians), as well as caregivers, sessions will teach tangible, concrete skills to address behavioral changes in dementia, family caregiving issues, suicide in the elderly and palliative care issues. Opportunity to network with other professionals will be made available.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES:

At the conclusion of this program participants should be able to:

1. Develop strategies to create and develop innovative approaches to meet the challenges and respond to the opportunities for providing a behavioral health workforce for the aging population.
2. Describe effective approaches to address behavioral changes in dementia.
3. Identify risks for suicide in the elderly and resources to address it.
4. Discuss proactive plans for those facing serious illness and advanced disease.

TARGET AUDIENCE:

This is an introductory program for front-line staff, case managers/service coordinators, therapists and clinicians. Family and caregivers are also welcome to attend.
